

Hello, my name is Micah Iron Cloud Laughlin. Today I would like to talk about what my family heritage has taught me about the theme, "Freedom Begins With Me". I've learned a lot from my family heritage. When I was really little I went to Montana to get my eagle feather. Getting an eagle feather is a big deal. When I got my eagle feather I had to make certain promises. I promised that when I see members of my tribe in need, I need to help them. I can give them some of my stuff like food and clothes. Since I don't live near my tribe in Montana, my community is like my tribe. When I see someone in my house or school I try to help them in any way I can. I think I can make a difference by helping people in need like people who don't have a house or people who have someone in their family pass away. Making a difference takes a lot of courage but it is always important to do the right thing. Have a good Freedom Week!
